Ribicoff, First New U.S. Cabinet Member, Is Son Of Poor Jewish Immigrants; Known As Nonpartisan, Efficient Administrator; Dislikes Pomp

When United States President-elect John F. Kennedy announced at a press conference that he had selected Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff, of Connecticut, as his Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, in the first Cabinet appointment for the new Administration, he said:

"Gov. Abraham Ribicoff, of Connecticut, has agreed to become the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. It is with great pleasure that I name Governor Ribicoff, an old friend and distinguished public servant, to this first post in the Cabinet.

"There is no agency of the Government whose services more directly concern a greater number of Americans than this most vital responsibility. There are over 62,000 employees in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and its budget last year and the funds which it distributed throughout the country amounted to over three and three-quarter billion dollars.

"It has great responsibilities in the field of education, and I cannot think of any more important domestic responsibility than that this department and the Federal Government give leadership in improving and strengthening the American educational system and providing opportunity for all Americans to realize their talent in this field.

"Secondly, the Secretary of H. E. W. has great responsibilities in the field of the nation's health. Health and education are two matters of great concern to the citizens of this country. As Governor of Connecticut for the last six years, on the average over 74 per cent of the budget of Connecticut has been devoted to health and education. Governor Ribicoff has had long and successful experience in both of those fields.

"I name him to this position with complete knowledge of its great responsibilities which fall under this department and of his capacity, and I think the country is fortunate to have him. He has two years to go in his term of office, and he is most reluctant to leave Connecticut, but I think the people of Connecticut will agree that in these very difficult and challenging times it is important that all citizens make themselves available for service to our country.

"I am therefore proud that Governor Ribicoff has agreed to assume that responsibility, and I am delighted that this is the first of the Cabinet to be announced and appointed."

Governor Ribicoff, who was present at the news conference, said:

"I really accept this appointment with mixed feelings. I recognize the great honor and the great privilege it will be to work under the leadership of President Kennedy in the days ahead. And yet I have a deep affection for the State of Connecticut. The people in Connecticut have always been most kind to me. I like Connecticut. It will be with great reluctance that I would have to leave the state.

"I have always told the President-elect that I never sought a job and I have never asked for a job in his administration. I have worked in his cause since 1956 because I recognize his greatness and that he can bring to America the great leadership it needs in the years ahead. However, no man or woman has a right to refuse to do anything the President of the United States may ask. And I recognize that there is much that can be done in this field.

"My philosophy in the field of health, education, and welfare is on all fours with the philosophy of President-elect Kennedy. As you analyze the problems of health, education, and welfare, you realize that there is a great deal of cooperation necessary between the states and the Federal Government.

"In the state of Connecticut alone 7¢ per cent of our general fund budget is given over to the fields of health, education, and welfare, and I imagine that the same percentage probably prevails throughout the United States among our fifty states. There is much co-operation because many of these programs involve grants. And I look forward with pleasure toward this opportunity in the days ahead, working under the leadership of a great President, President Kennedy."

No Cabinet officer had ever been named under such circumstances as attended the announcement of Governor Ribicoff's appointment. The Governor called on Senator Kennedy at the latter's home at 3307 N Street in Georgetown. Senator Kennedy let reporters know that he would make an announcement on his front stoop at 3.15 p.m.

Promptly at 3.15 the white door of the old red-brick house opened, and the President-elect and Governor Ribicoff appeared hatless and coatless in windy, 37-degree weather. Senator Kennedy was wearing a single-breasted gray suit, white shirt and blue tie with red-and-white stripes. Governor Ribicoff was dressed in a blue suit and blue tie.

Governor Ribicoff, 50 years old, is midway in his second four-year term as Governor of Connecticut, having been re-elected in 1958 by a record plurality, says the New York Times. He said he would resign as Governor in favor of Lieut. Gov. John N. Dempsey after his nomination for the Cabinet post had been confirmed by the Senate.

Governor Ribicoff was holding his own state budget hearings on health and educational matters in Hartford when he was summoned to Washington for the conference with Senator Kennedy.

As the fourth Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare — a post created in 1953 under the Eisenhower Administration — Governor Ribicoff will be taking charge of a department with 62,000 employees with an annual budget of about $3,750,000,000. His predecessors are Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Marion Folsom, and Arthur S. Fleming.

The department choice was Governor Ribicoff's own and came as something of a surprise to Senator Kennedy, who had originally included him in consideration for the post of Attorney General.

The pomp and circumstance of political life mean little to Abraham Alexander Ribicoff. Since his election as Governor in 1955, he has conducted Connecticut's affairs with simplicity. He has no press secretary and issues no press releases. When he has an announcement to make, he usually does it in person. He sees reporters at 10 A.M. and 4 P.M. every day when he is in Hartford.

He prefers a state policeman's small sedan to the big, official Governor's limousine. He rides in the front seat with the driver, who is under instructions to obey speed limits and to stop at all traffic lights. And he dislikes the term "executive mansion" for the nineteen-room Georgian house assigned to the Governor on Prospect Hill in Hartford. He refers to it as his "residence."

Other trade-marks of Governor Ribicoff, have been nonpartisanship and efficient government, says the New York Times. Until his identification with the Presidential campaign of Senator John F. Kennedy, the 50-year-old Governor had been such a discreet Democrat that Connecticut residents were aware of his party affiliation only secondarily.

Seeking his first term in 1954, Governor Ribicoff declared: "A man runs for the office of Governor as a partisan, but, once he is elected, he becomes the leader of all the people." His success in reaching that objective was demonstrated in 1958, when he was re-elected by the greatest majority in the state's history, 246,368 votes.

He carried into victory with him a United States Senator, all six Connecticut seats in the House and a Democratic majority in both houses of the State Assembly. It was the first time the State Assembly had been controlled by the Democrats since 1874.

There is nothing in the record to indicate any specific experience of the Governor in health, education or welfare, except that he has directed those who have been in charge of such services in Connecticut. However, one of the principal requirements for a head of the department to which he has been named is that he be an able administrator.

Governor Ribicoff has led successful moves to abolish outmoded county government and eliminate more than two-score state agencies. He has instituted a new lower court system and has put through a $350,000,000 bond issue to finance a highway program. His highway safety program, entailing the mandatory suspension of drivers' licenses for speeders, has attracted national attention.

Mr. Ribicoff dresses carefully and conservatively. He is nearly six feet tall and weighs about 170 pounds. His black hair is turning gray at the temples.

The Governor was born in New Britain on April 9, 1910, and was educated in the public schools there. He attended New York University for one academic year, 1929-30, and went on to law school at the University of Chicago, says the New York Times. He received his law degree in 1933 and entered practice in Hartford that year.

He served as a member of the State Assembly from 1938 to 1942 and became a judge of the Hartford Police Court in 1941. He served on the bench until 1943 and then for another term from 1945 to 1947. In 1949, he was elected as a Representative from the First Congressional District. He was re-elected in 1952.

He is the son of poor Jewish immigrants and the first Jew to become Governor of the state of Connecticut. His political philosophy is moderation. "I'm no wild and woolly liberal," he has said. His success, according to his friends, is due to the "magic" of his personality. He had worked as a newsboy, and then for a hardware company, before he went on to University.

He is a member of Congregation Beth Israel in West Hartford. He is married to the former Miss Ruth

Beloved First Citizen Raised Cultural Tone Of His City

Isaac Louis Myers, of Memphis, Tenn., head of the I. L. Myers Paper Company, and a widely known patron of the arts, died in New York at the Mount Sinai Hospital of a heart attack. He was 62 years old.

Mr. Myers was a beloved figure in his native Memphis for his work in developing cultural activities there for the benefit of the city's residents, often at considerable financial loss to himself.

For fifteen years he supported the annual visit to Memphis of the Metropolitan Opera Company, says the New York Times. He was a member of the Metropolitan Opera Association's national council. The opera company was to have performed in Memphis next May, but as a result of Mr. Myer's death its appearance there now is uncertain.

His bachelor apartment in Memphis was famous for its collection of paintings, sculptures, classical records, rare books, and other objects of art. A shy, retiring individual, Mr. Myers nevertheless numbered among his friends and admirers many of the great personages in the world of art and music.

He was a guiding force in the establishment of the Memphis College of Music and the Memphis Academy of Arts. He also played a major role in establishing in Memphis the Brooks Memorial Art Gallery, the Symphony Orchestra, and the Open Air Theatre. He was a member of the Memphis Civic Center Advisory Committee.

Mr. Myers was particularly fond of the Memphis Youth Symphony, which he supported in its annual program of concerts designed to give young musicians experience in ensemble playing. He was reported to have said that he would provide in his will for the continuation of the orchestra.

He was known to the children of his native city as "Uncle Ike", says the New York Times. They wrote to him frequently, thanking him for the free concerts and art exhibitions that he sponsored for them as founder of the organization known as Arts Appreciation.

Among others who wrote to him in appreciation of his work for the arts and his other contributions were Albert Spalding, the violinist; Sir Thomas Beecham, the conductor; Sigmund Romberg, the composer; the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, Minister of Christ Church, Methodist, in New York; Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, of India, and Rudolf Bing, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera.

A.J.C. Urges Kennedy To Implement Mid-East Pledges

The American Jewish Congress in a policy statement urged President-elect Kennedy to name as Secretary of State a man who would work to reduce Mid-East tension. The Jewish group declared that the President-elect should search for a person "best equipped" to carry out "a vigorous and creative" foreign policy.

In a resolution adopted at a meeting of the group's national governing council in the Stephen Wise Congress House, 15 E. 84th Street, New York, Mr. Kennedy was admonished that only a Secretary of State "fully committed" to the policies he himself had advocated in the last Congress and in the Presidential election campaign could "redeem the President-elect's specific pledges for solving the Middle East dilemma and implementing his constructive proposals for a new approach to Africa."

Spelled out, these proposals called for the ending of the Arab boycott of Israel and of Egypt's refusal to permit Israeli shipping to use the Suez Canal, says the New York Herald Tribune. Samuel Hendel, a professor of City College and chairman of the American Jewish Congress' commission on international affairs, said the major task of United States policy in the Mid-East should be "to end

U.S. Zionists Want Ex-Premier Of Israel As World Leader

A leading Zionist spokesman urged Moshe Sharett, former Israeli Premier and Foreign Minister, to assume active leadership of world Zionism. "We must insist upon it and draft him, even against his wish, if need be," said Dr. Emanuel Neumann, president of the World Confederation of General Zionists, reports the New York Times. Dr. Neumann addressed more than 1,000 guests at the annual dinner of the Zionist Organization of America, in New York, at the Astor Hotel.

Mr. Sharett, who guided Israeli foreign policy from 1948 to 1956 and who is now in the Knesset (Parliament), was present. He was premier in 1954 and 1955.

The $100-a-plate event celebrated the thirteenth anniversary of the United Nations decision to create the State of Israel. It was also a tribute to Abraham Goodman, long a Zionist leader and new head of the organization's administrative committee, on his seventieth birthday.

Dr. Neumann said Mr. Sharett should assume Zionist leadership at the World Zionist Congress, which opens in Jerusalem on December 27. He called Mr. Sharett "one of the foremost leaders of Israel" and indicated that the former Premier could help to solve the "cardinal problem" of assuring

MONTREAL MARRIAGES

KATZ-BERCOVITCH

The marriage of Miss Rhoda Bercovitch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bercovitch, 5555 Notre Dame de Grace Avenue, to Stanley Katz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Katz, 1861 Surrey Crescent, took place at six o'clock, at the Windsor Hotel, on November 27, Rabbi Wilfred Shuchat officiating, assisted by Cantor N. Mendelson. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in white peau de soie, appliqued with seed-pearl-beads, and cut with a tight-fitted bodice, made with a portrait neckline, and long sleeves; and full skirt with a chapel train. Her veil of tulle illusion was combined with a crown of seed-pearl-beads; and she carried a prayer book with mauve orchids and stephanotis. Miss Isabel Katz, sister of the groom, was maid of honour, in a gown of pink peau de soie, appliqued in lace and seed-pearl-beads; and had a crown of coloured crystals. She carried a cascade of pink roses. Daniel Bercovitch, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were: Larry Zaritsky, Paul Druker, Jack Druker, Edward Druker, Daniel Katz, Steven Goodis, Tom Rosenthal, Jules Esterson, Joseph Neidik, Steven Altro, and Michael Bercovitch. Morton Bercovitch was junior usher. Standards of pink and white roses, carnations, and gladioli arranged with greenery decorated the Ball-Room. Mrs. Bercovitch, mother of the bride, was in a gown of pink velvet, made with a square neckline; and sheath skirt, with a full overskirt of pink peau de soie; and had a tulle hat of pink. Mrs. Katz, mother of the groom, wore a gown of pink peau de soie, made with a sheath front skirt, with a full bustle at the back; also a pink tulle hat. Their corsages were of white orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Katz spent their wedding trip in Miami Beach, Florida, the bride going away in a white and red boucle ensemble. They have taken up residence at 6940 Fielding Avenue. Here for the marriage were: Mrs. Annette Kroph, of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Roberts, of St. Albans, Vt.; A. Tinkoff, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. James Stuart, of Sarnia, Ont.; Leon Schramm, of New York; Miss Joanne Strauss, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. Bessie Rosenbaum, of Toronto, Ont.; and Mrs. Rose Katz, and Elizabeth and Edith, of Saint John, N. B.

WHERE THERE'S A Wish THERE'S A Way

and the B of M way is sometimes the best way to say "Merry Christmas"

Sometimes money is the only logical gift for three or four of the more "difficult" names on your gift list . . . but to some of us cold cash and Christmas-giving just don't seem to go together. Well, the B of M has the way to take the chill off cold cash and make your gift of money a warm, personal one, fully in keeping with the spirit of the season.

Look over the B of M's three ways to make your gift of money arrive to the tune of "Jinglebells".

1. STUDENTS' AND BABIES' PASSBOOKS make a delightful extra for some youngsters on your list. Your gift of money is entered in a special passbook and enclosed in a Christmas cover guaranteed to make young eyes pop with glee.

2. MONEY ORDERS purchased for Christmas-giving come in gaily-decorated envelopes or folders that clearly spell out your Yuletide wish. Ideal for those "hard-to-buy-for" people on your out-of-town gift list.

3. SPECIAL CHRISTMAS CHEQUES are available in two colourful holiday designs — one for personal and one for business bonus-giving. They are "gift-wrapped" in a bright cover that glows with the spirit of the season.

See these special Christmas features at your neighbourhood branch of the B of M today (don't forget to bring your Christmas shopping list).

THEY DON'T HAVE TO BE "PROBLEM CHILDREN" TO HAVE PROBLEMS

Federation carries on an extensive program of Jewish education, to enrich the lives of Jewish youths through a knowledge of their history and culture, their traditions.

These are the many ways you help the youngsters of this community, when you contribute to the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies. These are the many ways you help make sure that every child — including your own, or those in families close to you — has a chance to realize his capacities to the fullest.

In this sense, your contribution to Federation is much more than a charitable donation (deductible though it is as pure charity). When you give to the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, you not only contribute to the healthy growth of your community . . . you not only enrich the future of your nation . . . you enlarge your own horizon.

They Don't Have To Be "Problem Children" To Have Problems

The following appeared in the New York Times as an advertisement of the New York Federation of Jewish Philanthropies:

Forget, for a moment, about juvenile delinquents. Think of the other 98 per cent — the youngsters in this community who never make the headlines.

Normal, healthy youngsters always have problems. Remember what you were like when you were their age? They still experience the fears of growing up, of making changes and decisions, of stepping out on their own. But today, that is only the beginning of their problems. They are troubled by questions of war and peace, of nuclear bombs and the armament race. Closer to home, they are troubled by the problems of overcrowded schools, of limited college acceptances, of impending army service, of an increasingly conformist society.

If you have or know children in the 12-to-19 group, you know how almost frighteningly informed they are, if only through television. In many cases, this is part of their problem. Deceived by their own knowingness, they are sometimes catapulted into experiences for which they are emotionally and intellectually unprepared. Before they are old enough to handle the situation, they rush to "go steady," even to marry. The rising number of early marriages — and divorces — testifies to this.

Generally, understanding families can help normal youngsters over most of their problems. Perhaps your youngsters are in this fortunate group. But all families are subject to the distractions of today's world, and there seems to be less and less opportunity for many of them to be together and "talk things over."

This is where the community must be prepared to play its role. And you must be prepared to play yours. Are you doing everything you can now to make sure that the normal problems of young people do not become magnified and malignant? Are you doing everything you can to make sure that here where you live there are enough centers where youngsters can get together, enough places they can go to get help with their special concerns, enough trained people to help them?

One of the most effective ways you can make sure is by supporting the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies. Through its 116 agencies, Federation has served as a good "friend of the family" for many years. Maintained by the Jewish community for the benefit of all people, Federation provides help for young people in a variety of ways:

Federation family service and child care agencies give youngsters an opportunity to talk over their problems with an interested, knowledgeable adult, and give parents whatever counseling they may need to better understand and cope with their growing children and help them through a temporary period of stress.

A Federation agency helps children from 13 up with problems of college, vocational guidance, aptitude evaluation, career choice and employment.

Federation maintains 36 community centers where youngsters can cultivate their special or group interests and participate, under professional supervision, in many social, recreational and cultural activities.

Federation's 18 camps give youngsters the opportunity for summer and winter country camp vacations and leadership training.

the arms race and to bring about direct peace talks between Israel and the Arab countries."

Dr. Hendel said Senator Kennedy had voted for the Douglas-Keating amendment to the Mutual Security Act empowering the President to withhold U.S. aid from countries that wage economic warfare against other countries that receive U.S. aid.

He said that in a letter to the American Jewish Congress, Senator Kennedy had pledged he would exercise this authority if elected President and would act affirmatively to protect American citizens from religious or racial discrimination by foreign governments.

Such American initiative, Dr. Hendel said, should be based on "ignoring the problems posed by nations that infringe on the rights of American citizens to travel and trade freely and that thwart the purpose of American economic aid through boycott and blockage of the one country in the Middle East — Israel — that represents the democratic way of life," reports the New York Times.

The statement said that Mr. Kennedy should choose a Secretary of State not on the basis of domestic politics or geographical considerations but rather in terms of the man best qualified to carry out Mr. Kennedy's views on the Mid-East problems.

BELOVED FIRST CITIZEN

In 1946, Mr. Myers was the winner of the first citizenship award of the Memphis unit of the American Newspaper Guild. Two years later Southwestern College granted him the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts, and in 1949 he received the patron award of the Memphis Academy of Arts. In 1951 he was made a Chevalier of the French Legion of Honor.

Mr. Myers did not know it, but he was to have been the guest of honor at a surprise party given by his fellow residents of Memphis at the Kiwanis Club. Mayor Henry Loeb was to have presented to him a token on behalf of the city of Memphis. Mr. Myers was a member of the Navy League of the United States, says the New York Times. Surviving are two brothers, Asher Myers, and Mayer B. Myers, both of Memphis.

spiritual unity among Jews throughout the world.

Dr. Neumann warned there was a "danger of a widening gap between Israel and the Diaspora (lands outside Israel) in future decades."

To prevent this, he urged that the Zionist Congress this month be made a kind of "ecumenical congress of the Jewish people, embracing Jews of all shades of opinion professing loyalty to a common spiritual heritage."

Discussing the same problem, Max Bressler, president of the Z.O.A., suggested that the Congress set up a commission on relations between Israel and world Jewry to strengthen the "sense of interdependence between all sections of the Jewish people."

The tributes to Mr. Goodman described him as "an honored and dedicated servant of Israel" and "a pillar of strength for our movement", says the New York Times. He received a plaque for his "lifelong devotion to the Zionist cause."
